TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES IN THE OREGONIAN.

DATES TO FEBRUARY 20.

Congressional

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—In the Senate Senator from the Pacific Railroad Committee submitted a voluminous majority report in response to the views of the minority in the Pacific Railroad.

Wilson introduced a bill to return the meeting of the headquarters of the General of the army at Washington, and requiring all orders to pass the President and the Secretary of War before they go through him.

Anthony, from the Committee on Printing, made a report in relation to the printing and binding the debates. He said he would ask action on it to-morrow.

Pomeroy introduced a bill to abolish peonage in New Mexico.

The bill passed in relation to the prize money for Farragut's men who assisted in the capture of New Orleans.

Trumbull called up the bill to reorganize the judicial system of the United States. It fixes the number of Supreme Judges at nine, and provides for the appointment of Circuit Judges. The provisions of the bill have been heretofore telegraphed. Judd spoke in opposition to the bill, when the morning hour expired and unfinished business from yesterday was in order.

The Indian appropriation bill came first. Several additional amendments were reported by the Committee and adopted.

Stewart offered an additional section transferring the control of the Indian bureau to the War Department. After considerable debate the amendment was rejected, 8 to 26. The bill then passed.

The bill to repeal the Tenure-of-Office bill was taken up and the Senate adjourned.

In the House the Army appropriation bill was taken up. All the amendments reducing the ordinary appropriations were agreed to.

The Rock Island Armory appropriation produced a pointed discussion. In the midst of the discussion Butler made a final appeal in favor of his amendment for a reduction of the army in opposition to Blaine's amendment. He urged gentlemen not to take expedient any more, but to legislate for the best interests of the people acting upon their own judgment and responsibility. This was in reply to a speech made by Kelly, expressing confidence in Gen. Grant.

Blaine made an earnest appeal against Butler's amendment. He hoped the House would not vote to deprive General Sherman of the chance to attain the rank of General of the armies, or General Sheridan or General Thomas of the chance to attain that of Lieutenant General.

After a protracted debate the House came to a vote on the amendment reducing the Rock Island appropriation from one $1,000,000 to $500,000, which was rejected.

Blaine's substitute was adopted by a vote of 111 to 61. The bill then passed.

Blaine's substitute provides that no new commissions shall be issued until the army is reduced to ten regiments of infantry, five of cavalry and five of artillery. The Secretary of War is directed to consolidate the regiments as rapidly as the requirements of the publice service will admit, until the aforementioned number is reached. No new appointments or promotions shall be made in the Adjutant General's, Quartermaster's, Ordnance or Medical Departments, until otherwise directed by law.

Pike, from the Committee of Conference on the bill to amend the law in relation to the navy and marine corps, made a report, which, after discussion, was agreed to, and the House took a recess.

Tipton introduced a bill granting the right of way and public lands in aid of the Denver South Pacific and Rio Grande Railroad.

Wiley introduced a bill continuing the educational and collection departments of the Freedmen's Bureau until otherwise ordered.

Howard stated that the Pacific Railroad Committee had not had time to consider the various bills before them, so the Committee was discharged from further consideration of a number of bills incorporating various companies.

In the House at its evening session, Wiley offered a resolution, which was adopted, directing the Secretary of State to take measures to ascertain the cause of the arrest and incarceration, by the Captain General of Cuba, of Emil Caboda, a citizen of the United States.

On motion of Butler, the expenses of removing the remains of Thad. Stevens from Washington to his home in Pennsylvania, were ordered to be paid out of the contingent fund.

Churchill, from the Committee on the Judiciary, reported a bill to define felonies and misdemeanors, and to regulate peremptory challenges of jurors. Passed.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the Postoffice appropriation bill. The total sum appropriated is over $30,000,000.

Governor Boutwell will to day make an effort to induce the House to pass the Constitutional Amendment as sent from the Senate. The indications are, after much consultation, that it will be accepted by the House. If this is not done the whole thing will be lost.

Miscellaneous

BOSTON, Feb. 19.—A resolution was introduced in the Massachusetts House to day, that the Alabama treaty be spurned with contempt, and that its adoption would be dishonorable to the Senate and an insult to the nation.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—It is rumored that Gen Butler and Erie Fisk are about to purchase a newspaper in Springfield to run in opposition to Sam Bowles' Republican.

Marshall and Colle, the alleged hotel robbers were arraigned yesterday. $2,000 were found in their possession and identified as belonging to the Pequonnock Bank, Bridgeport, Connecticut. The prisoners were committed.

It is stated that the parties here who raised the one hundred thousand dollars to present Gen. Sherman, with a house, have bought Grant's house in Washington for sixty thousand. Gen. Sherman will probably take possession soon after the 4th of March.

KEY WEST, Feb. 20.—The Peruvian iron-clad fleet, with convoys, has arrived.

MOBILE, Feb. 20.—Governor Smith issued a circular to sheriffs in reference to the Ku Klux outrages. He says they are invested with ample authority to preserve order, and if unable to do so by posse comitatus it is their duty to appeal to the commander of the nearest post for military aid.

TAMOLI, New York, Feb. 19.—A verdict of $15,000 was rendered to-day, for the plaintiff in the case of Floyd vs. The Erie Railroad, for injuries sustained by an accident to a train.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The House has fixed a hundred dollars as the license on distilleries producing twenty-five barrels or less, despite the opposition of the Committee of Ways and Means.

Senator Williams, of Oregon, is mentioned for an additional Judge of the Supreme Court for the District of Columbia.

Judge Howe is appointed Judge of the First District of Alabama.

The Senate committee to-day reported a resolution authorizing a contract for the work to be done for the purchase of the steamers Fulton and Robert Fulton, for a term of years after May 1st, 1869, on which the proprietors shall have the right to run the boats. In case of failure to contract with the proprietors, or inability to fulfill the contract, the Secretary of the Navy shall have the power to sell the steamers at the discretion of the Secretary of the Navy, subject to the disapproval of the Congress of the United States.

The argument on the appeals of the Pacific Mail steamship Company, on the ex-post-facto act, and the Cuba mail contract, was heard in the Supreme Court to-day. The Attorney General will close the argument on the Friday next.

Hooper, in the House Committee of Ways and Means, reported with several amendments the bill to extend the time for the completion of the Atlantic and Pacific telegraph lines. The amendments extend the time for the completion of the Atlantic line to July 1st, 1870, and the Pacific line to July 1st, 1871. The Secretary of the Navy is directed to cause the Pacific coast, from San Francisco to Puget Sound, to be surveyed, and to report to Congress at the next session. The Secretary of the Navy is also directed to cause the property, on the south side of Pennsylvania avenue, between 4½ and 6th streets, to be surveyed, and to report to Congress at the next session. His gun lay across his body, one hand grasping the broken ramrod and by his side lay an iron poker, with which it is supposed he pulled the short time since we made allusion to a method of iron manufacture which promi- to completely revolutionize the produc of wrought iron, and showed how the overy would be likely to be of great ad tage in unlocking the wealth of the iron of Oregon. The Pittsburg papers con ue to give the most flattering accounts of ss of the process. The following, is the commencement of that city the essence of the invention or discovery is in production of a conglomerate of cast iron metallic oxides. Such a conglomerate is ob ed, and can only be created, by chilling a stream of cast iron in contact with pul ized oxides of iron or other metals while the iron is dropped or poured into a recepta directly from the blast furnace or from melting furnace, the whole charge of pig being thus in a few minutes transformed into conglomerated mass of iron and metallic oxides as it is termed, into "pig blooms." This ad xture of molten iron and oxides is made upon moving table, or by other mechanical arrange nts.

As pig iron is usually transformed into wrought on, it is charged into a puddling furnace in co ction with iron ores and mill or forge cinders, e whole being fused together, and the yield and ality of the resulting wrought iron also largely fluenced by the quantity and character of the tallic oxides. If none are used, the pig iron rnishes its own cinder by its partial oxidation d the consequent waste of iron is great, while quality is deteriorated as the cinder formed, d in contact with the iron, contains in a com ratively small mass all the impurities of the g iron. In the new method the puddling pro ss may be said to be accomplished at once and tside of the puddling furnace by the intimate termixture of the pig iron with the metallic ox es—cold puddling as we may phrase it—and the bsequent treatment in the puddling furnace is erely heating the conglomerate preparatory to introduction into the hammer. The labor of e puddler is much reduced and simplified, nd the iron produced in a given time is more an doubled, while the consumption of fuel is in rrespondence with the time employed. The re tions in the formation of this conglomerate or g bloom are substantially the same with those hich occur in the puddling furnaces wherein pig on is charged. The larger yield of wrought iron om the former, and the superior quality and reater uniformity of the product, are to be attrib ted to the perfect intermixture of the pig iron ith the metallic oxides. This complete a lmix ire cannot be accomplished in the ordinary pud ling process, as the melted pig iron and oxide nd cinders are of unequal gravity, the latter oating on the top of the melted iron. Constant irring with an iron tool brings about some de ree of contact between the iron and the oxides, ut it is an imperfect one at best. In the "pig loom" this admixture has been effected in a anner practically perfect, and it only remains to eat the material in the puddling furnace until it r ready for the hammer or squeezers, as if prop rly treated in the first instance it does not melt n the furnace. A marked feature in the new ethod is the attainment of such good quality at he first rolling or hammering, that the repeated orkings necessary to reach this with the iron as ade are unnecessary.

Messrs Shoenbergers have already manufac ured by the process just described some 1,200 ons of iron. The average product from a pud ling furnace per turn, with one puddler and his elper, has been 3,900 pounds; but lately, in a ore suitable furnace for treating the material, e yield per turn, with same time and number of ands, has been 5,500 pounds, with no greater onsumption of fuel than is made at an ordinary ngle puddling furnace averaging 2,300 pounds.

STOW FOUNDATION PAVEMENT.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 18, 1869.

Hon. Frank McCoppin, Mayor of an Francisco—Dear Sir: You have now been connected th our City Government as Supervisor and Mayor for e past nine years, during which time you must have ven a great deal of attention to Street Paving, and I w ask it as a special favor to me, that you give briefly, writing, the result of your convictions relative to the veral styles of street paving now in use in this city By doing you will much oblige
Your obedient servant,
H. F. WILLIAMS,
President Stow Foundation Pavement Co.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20th, 1869.

Henry F. Williams, Esq., President of the S. F. P. —Dear Sir: Your communication of yesterday, re esting me to give in writing my opinion relative to the veral kinds of street pavement now in use in this city, before me, and in reply I would say, that at the time ecame a municipal officer of this city, in 1860, and for any years thereafter cobble-stone was the only kind of vement used by the city in its corporate, and by indi duals in their individual capacity. About five years o the Nicolson pavement was introduced here by Mr. J Robbins, assignee of the owner of the patent, and as received with much favor by our citizens. Very any portions of our streets are now paved with the colson Pavement, so-called—still later—that is to say, out two years ago, the "Stow Foundation Pavement" as introduced here by the inventor, and many of our blic streets have since been paved with that pavement. A sufficient length of time has, I think, elapsed, to en le any person who has given the subject any attention, form an intelligent opinion as to the merits of the re ective wooden pavements—of course, I leave the cob e-stones out of view entirely—and I have come to the nclusion, that, in many respects, such as adaptability our wants and in durability, the Stow is the superior vement. But, were the two pavements equal in every her respect, the facility with which the Stow can be ken up and relaid, whenever it becomes necessary to dis se it for the purpose of laying down gas and water es, should, in my judgment, entitle it to preference and blic favor.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
FRANK McCOPPIN,
Mayor of the City of San Francisco.

We, the undersigned, have carefully read the above tter from his Honor, Frank McCoppin, to H. F. Wil ms, Esq., upon the subject of street paving, and we fly indorse every word it contains:

MERCADO'S
Native California Wine
BITTERS

We subjoin the following affidavit, (a copy of which was formerly pending between Mercado & Sevilla, plaintiffs and C. A. Sumner, Defendant:

P. Sainsevain, being duly sworn says: That the article known as Sainsevain's California Wine Bitters was manufactured by Mercado & Sevilla, about the month of March, 1861, with or for the said Sainsevain, who had no interest in any concern in the manufacture thereof. That deponent has always known and considered said Mercado & Sevilla as the Sole Proprietors of the Sainsevain Confounds Wine Bitters.

Notwithstanding the above affidavit the said P. Sainsevain is putting up a compound under the name Sainsevain's California Wine Bitters, representing it to be the same as our celebrated Bitters which we have been manufacturing and selling in enormous quantities since 1860, and also affixing a nearly similar label to that used on our genuine Wine Bitters. BEWARE OF DECEIVED. Send for

NATIVE CALIFORNIA WINE BITTERS,

And you will obtain the same popular beverage so favorably known as ours. Beware of Counterfeits! Purchasers of our Wine Bitters are requested to observe the familiar old yellow label and see that the words, "MERCADO & SEVILLA, SAN FRANCISCO," are engraved on the Government stamp pasted over the cork of each bottle. Proposals must be to carry the mail with "celerity certainty and security," using the terms of the law, and they must be guaranteed by two responsible persons, certified to as such by a postmaster or judge of a court of record.

No pay will be made for trips not performed, and for each of such omissions not satisfactorily explained three times the pay of the trip may be deducted. For arrivals at or behind time as to break connections with depending mails, if not sufficiently excused, one fourth of the pay of the trip is subject to forfeiture. Fines will be imposed, unless the delinquency be satisfactorily explained from neglecting to take the mail from or into a post office, or collecting it to be injured, robbed, or lost, and for refusing after demand, to convey the mail as frequently as the contract runs, or in connection or running not to or from the route. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for incapacity, the post office laws, or the instructions of the Department. THE OVERLAND TRIP.—The following notes are from Mr A S. Morcom sent us from Salt Lake City, Feb 7th It will be of interest to all who contemplate a journey to the States:

EDITOR OREGONIAN:—That I may comply with numerous requests to give a statement of the time and expense incident to a trip from Portland to New York city, overland, I will give you a copy of my journal of the trip, "cut short in righteousness," that it may worry none, and yet give all the facts necessary. Left Portland, Jan 27th, '69, 5 A M., per O. S. N. Co's boat Cascades. Fare to Boise City, $50, coin; breakfast and dinner on board, $1 50; supper, lodging and breakfast at Dalles $2 50 Left Dalles at 7 A. M 28th, per stage; dinner at Price's 75c; arrived at John Day's River at 6 P. M.; supper, lodging and breakfast $2. Started for Umatilla at 6½ A M., cold lunch, arrived at Umatilla at 8 P M.; supper and lodging $1 50. Stage started at 2 A M., breakfast at 12 mile house $1; dinner at White's $1; arrived at Meacham's, on summit of Blue mountains, at 5½ P M supper, lodging and breakfast $3. Stage started at 6½ A. M.; dinner at La Grande, supper at Austin's, at 7 P. M.; supper and lodging $2. Stage left at 3 A M.; breakfast at Baker City, 7c., dinner at Express Ranch, $1, arrived at Miller's at 3 P M.; supper and lodging $2. Stage left at 3 A. M.; breakfast at the Weiser, $1, arrived at Boise 10 P. M, lodging and breakfast in currency, $2. Stage left at 6 P M.; fare to Salt Lake City, in currency, $100; dinner at Junction House, $1; arrived at Cold Springs at 7 P. M.; there blankets came into requisition, furnished by self; supper and breakfast $2. Stage left at 5 A. M.; dinner at Malaid, $1 50 Arrived at Snake river at 6½ P. M. This is an eating station, but dinner being had at 3 P. M. supper was not in demand. Left Snake river on arrival and rode all night, taking breakfast at Mountain Meadows at 3 A. M., $1 50 Stage left at 4, and on arrival at Raft river at 3 P. M., found the station keeper dead, and went hungry in consequence until 3 A. M., when we arrived at Carlew; did justice to a good breakfast, $1 50 Stage left at 4; dinner at Blue Springs, $1, 50. Arrived at Boar river at 4.30 P. M.; supper and lodging, $2 50. Stage left at 2 A. M.; breakfast at Ogden, $1 50, dinner at Centreville at 4 P. M., $1. Arrived at Salt Lake at 9 P. M; stage leave for Wasatch at 7 A. M. Fare to New York, in currency, $152. Thus you see the cost of the trip from Portland to New York via Boise, foots up $11, coin, allowing $3 per day for meals from here to New York, $278 currency, or, reducing to coin, $274—making this the shortest and cheapest route to the Atlantic cities. The present time from Portland to New York is seventeen days; sixty days hence the passage can be made in ten days, as Mr. Heighly has purchased the through line and will run from Umatilla to the railroad in three and a half days. Everything is done for the comfort of passengers, and Oregonians should stand by this Oregon Line.

VANCOUVER ITEMS.—We clip the subjoined items from the Register of Saturday During the high wind of last week there was quite a demolition of fences in this vicinity. Many of the roads in the county are obstructed by fallen timber.....There will be a ball in this city on the evening of Washington's birthday.....About two miles from here occurred a biting affray, on Wednesday last. An Irishman, Tim O'Thyhay, got into an altercation with a rough, Jack Ayres by name. The former was badly bitten in the scuffle..... The exhibition for the M. E. Church Sunday School will occur on Wednesday evening next. Exercises to commence at 7 o'clock. The object is to replenish the library. Arrangements have been made to make the occasion interesting and profitable to all who attend. A number of new settlers are coming in and taking claims.....Mrs. Brant and son, Lewis P. Brant, of this city, leave on Monday for the States. Mrs. Brant visits relations, and young Mr. Brant will enter West Point. We wish them abundant success and prosperity in their trip.....Rev. PORTLAND ACADEMY.—We have been requested to publish the following:

Numerous necessary expenses amounting to three hundred and fifty dollars, have been incurred by street assessments and will be required to provide sidewalks around the Academy block, therefore resolved that the Principal, T. N. Gatch, be authorized and required to add fifty cents to each pupil attending the Portland Academy and shall turn the funds so provided over to the Trustees for the purposes of defraying said expenses.

WM. R. WATKINS,
S. D. SHATTUCK,
MATTHEW P. DEADY,
Executive Committee.

Dated February 20th, 1869.

WASHINGTON GUARD'S BALL.—The sixth annual ball of the Washington Guard, in celebration of the anniversary of Washington's birth, will take place at their armory this evening. The excellent management of such occasions by the Guard, in the past, foretells the necessity of a large attendance. There will doubtless be a large party and it promises to be a pleasant one. The walls, ceiling and [illegible] of the hall have been decorated in the most [illegible] manner, with flags and theme paper, and hung in a variety of graceful figures. [illegible] of the hall will be almost gorgeous, and we venture nothing in the assertion that no ball room in this city was ever so handsomely fitted, for any occasion.

THE CAUSE OF THE ROW.—We copied, the other day, from the Enterprise, an item stating that the Ku-Kluxes of Oregon City had broken up in a row, and that the authorities put an end to the matter by turning out the lights. The Commercial, horrified at such an unwarrantable and tyrannical exercise of power, copied the item and asked the Enterprise for an explanation. It wanted "reliable information. The Enterprise this week replies: "We mean this, brother; that the person "aggrieved" was discussing his 'grievance'—which was said to be this: That a brother Ku-Klux had sold him musty cheese!"

United States Mints

From the N. Y Times, Jan 28

The reply of the Secretary of the Treasury to the resolution of the House, offered by Mr Washburne, of Illinois, relative to the receipts and expenses of the Mint of the United States and its branches, and the cost and probable business of the branch mint at Carson City, Nevada, was received to day. The receipts at the Mint at Philadelphia for the last three fiscal years from coinage of gold and silver were $218,087 in gold, and the expenses $637,830 in currency the average annual taxes over the income for the last three years having been $119,921. During the same period the amount of minor coinage manufactured and issued was $4,239,495; the expense of manufacture $1,342,082. The income over expenses, estimating these coins at their nominal values, was $2,897,462, of which $2,875,000 has been paid in the Treasury; the annual average income from this source being $965,820.

The production of bullion in Nevada is chiefly silver. Silver is only coined for purposes of change. all silver being exported in bars, the coinage in Nevada must therefore consist chiefly of the bullion produced in that State, which is estimated at one million dollars.

In 1864 an act was passed establishing a branch mint at Dalles City, Oregon, and $100,000 was appropriated for the purpose. The plans have been prepared, and work is soon to be commenced and it is possible the building and fixtures will cost as much as the branch mint in Nevada.

In conclusion the Secretary expresses the hope so frequently made previously, that no more branch mints will be authorized by Congress. Two mints are located on the Atlantic and one on the Pacific coast, and are sufficient to supply the coinage of the whole country. All other similar establishments require not only the erection of expensive buildings, but large annual appropriations for their maintenance without returning corresponding benefits to the Government.

The receipts of the United States Assay Office for three years were $118,700, and the expenses $100,301, the average annual expense over the income being $93,853. The receipts of the branch mint at San Francisco for three years were, in gold, $766,577, and the expense, in gold, $638,829; the average annual expense over income being, $63,889. The expenditure of the branch mint at Denver, since the date of its establishment in 1862, were $235,611, and the total receipts only $9,573.

A bill to convert this institution into an assay office was transmitted to Congress in February, 1867, and a similar bill has again been sent in during the present session, to which the attention of Congress is called. The expense of the branch mint at Charlotte, N. C., opened as an assay office in 1867, has been $3,321, and the receipts only $24 35. The Secretary recommends the branch mints in North Carolina and Georgia be disposed of to the best advantage. The total cost of the branch mint at Carson City, Nevada, including machinery and fixtures, was $276,187, of which amount $250,000 has already been appropriated by Congress. It is not thought a branch mint, complete in its appointments, can be erected on the Pacific coast at an expense much less than the cost of this establishment.

OBEY AT ONCE.—The other day I heard a mother ask her son to do something. "In a minute or two," he said. She spoke again—but it was two, three, four, five minutes before he minded her.

It makes me think of the switch-tender's boy. What if he had waited a minute before he minded his father? A switch tender in Prussia was just going to move the rail, in order to put a coming train of cars on a side track, when he caught sight of his little boy playing on the track. The engine was in sight, and he had not a moment to spare. He might jump and save the child, but he could not do that and turn the switch in time; and if it were not done, the oncoming train would meet another train, and a terrible crash and smash would take place. The safety of hundreds of lives depended on his fidelity. What could he do? What did he do? "Lie down! lie down!" he called, with a loud, quick voice, to the child, and, seizing the switch, the train passed safely on its proper track. Did the heavy train run over the little boy? Was he killed? Was he crushed to pieces? No; for he did just what his father told him, and did it instantly. He fell flat between the rails, and the cars passed high over his head; and the anxious father sprang to the spot. There he was, alive and well; not a hair was touched. It was his quick obedience, you see, that saved his life. He did not stop a minute. Even a minute's hesitation and he would have been too late.—Exchange.

Oranges were frozen solid on the trees at St. Augustine, Florida, on Christmas day. The weather was the coldest known in that locality since 1865. The thermometer, at daylight, stood at twenty degrees above zero. It afterwards touched seventy degrees. In a climate where even white frosts are unusual, this was very severe. Last year, at the same time, the Florida ladies were dressed in lawns.

What is better for being in many pieces? A brass band.

MONDAY MORNING, FEB. 22, 1869

First in War, First in Peace, and First in the Hearts of his Countrymen

A combination and a form, indeed
Where every gl did seem to set his seal
And give the world assurance of a man

The countrymen of WASHINGTON cannot too often engage in contemplation of his character, or revert too frequently to the example and advice which he has left them.

As, without Washington, it would probably have been impossible for this country to achieve its independence, so without his active influence, it is doubtful whether these States could ever have been brought together under a durable, consolidated Government. It required every effort he could put forth to secure these two results, and his countrymen, by preserving the Union he labored so hard to establish, have shown that they revere his memory and possess virtue enough to keep the charge which he gave them.

But though none now dares to utter the breath of calumny against his name, he could not escape defamation while living. It seems strange now that this man should ever have been traduced and maligned by bitter enemies, and yet it is a truth that he was often attacked by political opponents in public speeches and by fierce assailants through the press, with quite as much animosity and virulence as is ever exhibited by partisan speakers and writers of our day. While he was President he met with the most violent and unscrupulous opposition. The party which afterwards elevated Jefferson to the Presidency was gathering head, and it assailed Washington for suppressing the Pennsylvania rebellion, for negotiating the Jay Treaty, and for most of the prominent measures of his Administration. Jefferson himself encouraged this opposition, and while Secretary of State actually had a newspaper employed and paid to abuse Washington.

The party which thus had its origin in opposition to Washington's Administration is the same party which, in 1861, did not think our Union and country worth fighting for. Half the party, that is, the Southern wing of it, assumed the right to disrupt the Union; while the other half, or Northern wing, saw no way to prevent the disruption. They got these principles from men against whom Washington contended and whom he would have crushed, had his life been spared a few years longer. Had Washington lived, Jefferson in all probability would never have been President, and his political theories would have been as effectually condemned at that day as they are now. The great weight of Washington's name would have put down the Virginia politicians who were introducing such dangerous theories into the Government.

What Washington thought of the political movement which was headed by Jefferson and which culminated in the late Southern rebellion, may be gathered from a variety of sources; but probably the clearest utterances on the subject were made in a letter he wrote to Patrick Henry in 1799, only a short time before his death. He commenced by speaking of "the endeavors of a certain party among us to disquiet the public mind with unfounded alarms, to arraign every act of the (Adams') Administration, to set the people at variance with their Government, and to embarrass all its measures." He then went on to speak of the resolutions of '98, which had been adopted by the States of Kentucky and Virginia:

> Unfortunately, and extremely do I regret it, the State of Virginia has taken the lead in this opposition. I have said the State, because the conduct of its Legislature in the eyes of the world will authorize the expression, and because it is an incontrovertible fact that the principal leaders of the opposition dwell in it, and that with the help of the chiefs in the other States, all the plans are arranged and systematically pursued by their followers in other parts of the Union; though in no State, except Kentucky, has legislative countenance been obtained beyond Virginia.

We trust our neighbor of the Herald will now understand what we mean by "Virginia principles and politicians." We mean those "leaders of the opposition" who, as Washington said, dwelt in that State, and the pernicious doctrines which they introduced into the Government. We quote further from the letter to Patrick Henry:

> At such a crisis as this, when everything valuable to us is assailed; when this party hangs upon the wheels of Government as a dead weight, opposing every measure that is calculated for defense and self preservation; when measures are systematically and pertinaciously pursued which must eventually dissolve the Union or produce coercion, ought characters who are best able to rescue their country from impending evils remain at home? Your weight of character and influence in the House of Representatives would be a bulwark against such dangerous sentiments as are delivered there at present.

Washington threw his last vote against this party. He was a zealous supporter of the Federal candidate for Congress in his district, and rode two miles to deposit his vote. The dangerous dogmas he was contending against did result, as he predicted, in an attempt "to dissolve the Union," and did "produce coercion." Washington foresaw it and gave the warning. Well had it been for his countrymen had they heeded him. Well had it been for them had they possessed wisdom enough to reach a place of security by the path of peace instead of by the bloody road their error has compelled them to tread. Their error was in not putting this party down at once when its dangerous doctrines were first enunciated. Their safety for the future is in keeping it down. The admonitions of Washington should still ring in the ears of his countrymen. This is his birthday. Though dead, he yet speaketh.

DISAGREEMENT.—The OREGONIAN declares in substance that the proposed 15th amendment is not to be construed as "making the Chinese eligible to citizenship." Williams and Corbett both opposed it on that ground. Doctors will disagree.—Herald.

Of course the Herald is aware again that there is no foundation for the latter part of its statement. It knows that Williams and Corbett did not oppose the amendment because it makes "Chinese eligible to citizenship," for it does not make them eligible; but those Senators opposed the amendment because it did not contain a clause specially excluding them. Chinese are not citizens of this country, nor would the adoption of the amendment in any form in which it has been proposed make them citizens. But they could be made citizens by an alteration of the naturalization laws. Our Senators proposed to settle the whole matter by coming to an agreement by placing a clause in the amendment excluding the Chinese from citizenship. But a majority of the Senate opposed it and said that a remedy could be provided in the naturalization laws, that is, the Chinese should not be admitted to citizenship. The Herald purposely misrepresents the matter with all its unscrupulousness, it cannot take the proposed 15th amendment and construe it so as to make Chinamen "eligible to citizenship." That amendment only proposes to give citizens the suffrage.

Small Notes.

The acting President snarls out hatred of his constitutional dislike for faithful and meritorious officials. He goes through the motions of removing them and designating their successors, but their tenure of office seems to be far better than his own. The Stick, he goes.

The act of Congress, authorizing the Northern Pacific Railroad Company to issue bonds and mortgage their road, seems not to provide any Government aid, further than the land grant already made to the Company. Unless the Government guarantees the interest on the bonds, which seems not to have been done, the act will be of little value to the road.

The following from the Eugene Guard is a specimen of the Democratic method of political discussion. "It only requires success to sanctify any rebellion, when if the devil had succeeded in his rebellion against high Heaven and had driven General Michael with his army and Government out, what would have been the condition of things now? Would Old Nick's Government have been de jure or de facto? Where's Congress?" We suppose this argument is considered a complete vindication of "Democratic principles."

A Washington letter states that Senator Williams has introduced a bill to regulate elections in the Territories of Washington and Idaho, which provides that elections in those Territories for Delegates to the House of Representatives of the Forty-second Congress shall be held on the first Monday of June, 1870, and afterwards biennially; and that such such officers in said Territories as are now elected the same time with their Delegates shall be elected for the offices thereafter to be filled at the times above specified, unless otherwise provided by the laws of the Territories.

The Unionist has seen an old scrap of newspaper which was published in one of the New England States in the year 1810, and which contains the following from a correspondent "The infamous Acrostic, copied from the Aurora into your paper, has naturally excited sentiments of the keeneft indignation in the mind of every man who is not ready to subscribe to the detestable doctrine contained in the acrostic, that, 'Napoleon is our King.' That the initial words of seventeen verses, quoted promiscuously from the Bible, should, by accident, produce that awful, cabalistick sentence, is too incredible to admit of belief for a single moment. No it carries on its face evidence of a design the most infamous, of a plot the most treasonable." The Aurora was the leading Democratic organ of that period. That party had its origin in sympathy with the revolutionary Jacobins of France, and afterwards, as a matter of course, admired the despotism of Napoleon.

The Herald informs the world that, 'as the logical result of the dominancy of the New England school of politics, as predicted by Webster, the land has been rent with civil feuds and drenched with fraternal blood." Here's history for you! Considering that Webster uttered these words in the reply to Hayne, when he crushed the Jeffersonian-secession-Democratic doctrine of the South with his ponderous logic, the Herald's remark shows admirable historical learning. The Jeffersonian school of politics was then dominant in South Carolina, and that State was about to secede from the Union. Webster predicted that as a logical result of such teachings, our land would be rent with civil feuds and drenched with fraternal blood. He was right. Like Washington, Hamilton and Patrick Henry, he foresaw the result to which such dogmas would lead. All these men knew that the country could not stand, on the theory introduced by Jefferson. The Southern rebellion was the direct result of that theory. Its authors attempted to justify it by the resolutions of '98, and three-quarters of the Northern Democrats did the same.

The second number of Beriah's paper is out. It contains a long and able editorial, (only one this time) of which the following is the central idea: "For more than twenty years—by far the largest portion of our adult life—we were a citizen of a single Territory and State, recognized in our vocation as second to no one, and enjoying the honors and confidence of our party and fellow citizens to a degree conceded to few. With an honest pride in our vocation we had no ambition for political honors outside of that, but were frequently assigned, unsought, positions of trust and responsibility: Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee for many years; Presidential Elector, Chairman of the State Delegation in National Convention; State Printer; Regent of the State University; an officer in most of the State civic societies, and a candidate for Congress in the metropolitan district the year preceding the war. These distinctions we had won for ourself by a life of industry and integrity, without factitious aid or the surrender of manly independence." We hope we have given enough of this editorial to satisfy the most exacting reader.

FOR THE "BLOATED BONDHOLDERS."—The following is the financial plank of the Connecticut Democratic platform:

> Resolved, That the charge of intending to repudiate any portion of the national debt, so persistently made against us by our political opponents, is a slander without excuse or provocation, as our purpose of economy in the public expenditures is the best and most certain means of extinguishing the public debt, and leading to a general and safe resumption of specie payments—and to this end we demand of our Representatives in Congress, and in the Legislature the sternest opposition to all appropriations that are not absolutely required for the support of the Government, until every creditor of the same is paid his honest dues to the uttermost farthing.

This is just as strong as anything the "bloated bondholders" could desire. The Tammany platform and greenback payments are repudiated. Taught by the last election, that dishonest propositions cannot win, the "Democracy" are endeavoring to "assume a virtue."

> "Sweet are the uses of adversity
> Which, like the toad, ugly and venomous,
> Wears yet a precious jewel in its head."

A NEGRO CLAIMS 800 ACRES OF SAN FRANCISCO.—A negro man, aged about eighty years, recently arrived in San Francisco from New York, visiting the former city for the purpose of reclaiming and taking possession of some eight hundred acres thereof which he claims to own. He says that he lived where San Francisco now stands some thirty-five years ago, at which time he received a grant from the Mexican Government for eight hundred acres of the peninsula, but the sandy and barren character of the soil was such that he did not value it very highly. After several years' residence he went into Southern Mexico and thence to the Atlantic States, where he joined Fremont's exploring expedition and returned to California. After the cession of this State to our Government he claims to have located a land warrant on the present site of San Francisco. It is understood that he is well pleased with the improvements that have been put upon his land during his absence, and that he is disposed to be liberal with his tenants. A swarm of real estate "sharps" are on his trail, disposed to ostracize him. If this negro's shadow is as dark as represented, it will considerably cloud San Francisco real estate.

Curious—That hard showers should make soft water.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

Congressional

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The credentials of Eugene Casserly were presented.

A [illegible] which lasted till the expiration of the morning hour, upon the propriety of issuing American registers to vessels which put themselves under foreign protection during the war. No conclusion was reached.

The tenure-of-office act was taken up this evening session of Tuesday was set apart for the consideration of business from the Committee on Commerce. Wednesday evening was appropriated to consider business from the military committee.

Mr. Conkling said the tenure-of-office law was one of the most necessary enactments in the interest of honest and economical trade, in the use and employ the purse of the nation to enrich the nation's foes. That exigency is now passed. He desired to dispense with such protections of the law as were needless and an encumbrance, and to retain the remainder.

A discussion ensued between Messrs. Conkling and Morton, after which Mr. Doolittle addressed the Senate in favor of the repeal of the law.

Mr. Howe also advocated its repeal. He agreed with the Democrats of Connecticut in the views expressed in a resolution of the Connecticut convention, declaring they would not wage an inveterate war against the administration of Gen. Grant.

Mr. Howe favored the repeal and made an argument that the law should be repealed, not because Grant could not be trusted, but because he regarded it as an opportune time to right a great mistake of Congress.

Mr. Sawyer then spoke against the repeal, and thought that to repeal a law for the new administration would be like falling before the rising sun.

Mr. Morton was to have addressed the Senate, but gave way to a motion to adjourn.

House.—Twenty absentees from last night's session were brought before the bar of the House and further proceedings under the call were dispensed with.

The new Mexican contested election case was decided by giving the seat to Chaves, the contestant.

Mr. Schenck reported a joint resolution to postpone the time for the first meeting of the Forty-first Congress from noon to 3 o'clock P. M March 4th, which was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. Boutwell, under suspension of the rules, the Senate amendment to the joint resolution was taken up.

Mr. Woodward desired to offer an amendment requiring the amendment to be submitted to legislatures to be elected hereafter.

Mr. Boutwell declined to allow the amendment to be offered.

Mr. Bingham desired to offer an amendment heretofore agreed to by the Senate, as follows: The right of citizens of the United States to vote and hold office, shall not be denied or abridged by any State on account of race, color, nationality, property, creed or previous condition of servitude.

Mr. Boutwell first refused to allow any amendments to be offered, but finally consented to permit the above.

Mr. Shellabarger offered an amendment giving all male citizens the right to vote, except those engaged in insurrection or rebellion.

Mr. Logan offered an amendment to strike out of the Senate resolution the words 'or hold office.' Several members debated the question briefly and Mr. Boutwell moved the evening session be dispensed with and the rules be suspended and the House proceed to vote immediately on pending amendments.

Mr. Knott moved to adjourn. Lost.

The rules were suspended by 164 to 37.

Mr. Bingham's amendment was agreed to by 92 to 70.

Mr. Shellabarger's amendment was withdrawn and the Senate resolution, as amended by Mr. Bingham, passed by 140 to 35. Adjourned.

FROM THE NORTH

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 20. From Mr. J. W. Ackerson, one of the proprietors and business manager of the new steam steam saw mill building at Tacoma, about 30 miles below this place who is now en route for San Francisco, we learn that the work is progressing steadily and satisfactorily. The mill will be of large capacity, and in connection with an [illegible] second to none on the coast.

Mr. [illegible] states that the same contains are [illegible] in connection with the mill a wharf 2½ feet in length, which will reach four fathoms of water at low tide. The lumber will go on a narrow gauge road from the saws to the wharf. [illegible] weekly line of stages running between [illegible] and the mill.

A letter to the Alta California Delegate to Congress says that the stumpage rates for Washington Territory will hereafter be fixed by the Judges of the U. S. It is believed the Courts will make a reduction of fifty to one-third present rates.

Mr. J. T. Nash has purchased a steamboat, but in an unfinished condition at Miller's Point. He contemplates putting in machinery and running her on the Sound. Good authority states that Capt. D. B. Finch and associates of the steamer Wilson G. Hunt, are building in New York a commodious and fast first class steamship designed for the Sound trade.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21.—Fire broke out at four o'clock yesterday morning in a two-story frame building, corner of Stockton and Jackson streets. The fire originated in a portion of the building occupied by the Bavarian Brewery, and quickly spread to the millinery store of H. Elmer, hoopskirt and fancy goods store of S. Summerfield and the California Brewery saloon. The second story of the building was occupied by a family who barely escaped with their lives through a window by means of a ladder. Loss sustained by Bavarian Brewery $300, insured in Hamburg and Bremen for $3,000. Loss of H. Elmer $200, no insurance. Store of S. Sumerfield insured for $500 which does not cover loss. Cloak and dry goods store of M. Berkowitz sustained loss of $3,500, insured for $7,000. The building was owned by Schuppert and insured for $1,000, loss estimated at $1,000.

A man named Louis Viogart was arrested last night in a pawn-broker shop on charge of larceny. Upon searching his room a complete set of counterfeiting materials were found under his bed. They consisted of two chalk dies for making half dollars, a small crucible and ladle, a quantity of alloy, and several ingredients used by counterfeiters.

The City Guard, from Sacramento, arrived on the Sacramento boat last night and were met by the Ellsworth Rifles. They came down to participate in the celebration of Washington's birth day to-morrow.

Twenty five frame houses on the line of the extension of Montgomery street were sold at auction yesterday. They realized from $75 to $1,900 each.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

SALEM, Feb. 21.—A small boy, aged about three years, son of Mr. Stipp of this city, wandered off about ten o'clock yesterday, and although some two hundred persons were in search the little sufferer was not found until about three o'clock this morning, then only by the aid of a dog. Life was nearly extinct when found.

JACKSONVILLE, Feb. 21.—Small pox has about disappeared from this place. No new cases have occurred for over two weeks. Business has been resumed, and there are now no cases under treatment, all being convalescent.

On Saturday morning the smoke house of E. D. Foudry, at Phoenix, containing about 7,000 pounds of bacon, was burned to the ground. Loss about one thousand dollars.

Weather clear and cold. No rain yet, and mining nearly suspended.

STATE ITEMS.

The Ashland woolen mills, Jackson county, have been making large quantities of very fine blankets.

The winter has been very mild in Ochoco, only about two and a half inches of snow having fallen.

The name of the man who was killed on the river above Salem last week by being crushed in a raft of logs, was Michael Last. He was a resident of Buena Vista.

Bibulation seems to be regarded with considerable favor in small pox times—probably on the principle that one poison counteracts another, and the latest style of invitation in Jacksonville, according to the Sentinel, is, "let's disinfect."

The Jacksonville Sentinel says: On Thursday night, 4th inst., a valuable mule belonging to Mr. Hendricks, of Applegate, was stolen from the stable. On the same night a saddle was stolen from the forks of Jackson Creek, which seems to indicate that the thief came this way.

A Southern Oregon paper reports that some parties at Plokett's camp in Josephine county, have constructed about 160 rods of ditch and discovered that the "fall" is the wrong way. They are considering the propriety of turning the ditch "end for end."

Says the Albany Register: Mr. Abe Hackleman, one of our town proprietors, has offered to donate to the O. C. R. R., on condition the Company build the depot on a portion of the land donated, eleven blocks of ground in his addition to Albany—in fact the offer was made some time ago. The land is valued at $15,000.

Senator Corbett has introduced a bill to establish the following post routes: From Humboldt Basin, via Ameba City, El Dorado and Clarksville, to Express Ranch. From Albany, via Lebanon, Sweet Home Valley, Camp Polk, Crooked River and Orchard Valley, to Mountain Home—a distance of 181 miles. From Dallas, via Salt Creek and Hall's to Grand Round.

The Unionist of Saturday says: Yesterday three of the P. T. Co.'s boats came up from Oregon City, and went above. The company is using all the means at its command to get down the vast amount of freight now lying along the river above here, before the river gets any lower. The light draft boats go up as high as they can, and bring down the freight to where the larger boats can take it, where they unload and go back.

The Albany Register says: James Elkins, Esq., Secretary of the Cascade Mountain and Deschutes Wagon Road Company, has been spending several days east of Lebanon, selecting lands in accordance with the grant made by Congress to aid in the construction of the road. The bill passed by Congress grants three sections for each mile of road, and the company are likely to secure some valuable tracts. We are informed that the road is in good repair for the coming season's travel.

A letter from Fort Klamath to the Jacksonville Sentinel states that the coldest weather at that place this winter was five deg. below zero. The writer adds: For the last two weeks everybody and their friends have been turning their energies towards sliding. The mania for sleds has broken out among the Indians, and it is an every day occurrence to see some white-eyed spotted cayuse running and bucking with the skeleton of a sled hanging to him by a rawhide string.

Unwritten History of the War.

Gen. Hillyer, formerly upon General Grant's staff, and a Democrat in politics, relates the following.

"Grant developed wonderfully in the war, and though I, as a Democrat, opposed his election, I had no doubt that he was the safe, strongest man, worthiest to head the army. There is needed no better instance or proof to this effect than the following. I was at City Point in 1865, and sitting close by Grant I saw him break the seal of a letter. Then he smiled, good-naturedly.

"'What's that, General Grant?'

"'A letter from Sherman. Read it.'

"I read the letter, and it said that Sherman could no longer hold Atlanta, his line being too long. He asked permission to destroy the town and move to the sea, subsisting upon the country and turning at bay to fight Hood whenever the latter pursued him too closely. All this seemed soldierly to me, and I asked Grant what in it made him laugh.

"'Why,' he said, 'I was wondering what Hood could find to subsist upon if he followed in the rear of Sherman.'

"Thus was the General supplying an error of genius. Sherman supposed that Hood would follow him. Grant knew that Hood could not eat off the barren and devastated country. So he sent this word to Sherman: 'You have my permission to destroy Atlanta and go to the sea after you detach Scofield and [illegible] to go to Tennessee. Hood will not follow you, he will march upon Nashville.' Now, see! Had Sherman carried out his whole force seaward, mistaking the effect of his movement upon Hood, Nashville would have fallen, Indiana and Ohio been invaded, and the Southern Confederacy been an accomplished fact."

Grant, said Hillyer, "is stern as Jupiter. There is no other story of two sterner men than Grant and George H. Thomas before the battle of Nashville. Thomas had a dislike of being whipped, and he is cautious and sedate to the last degree till the time for decision has come. Grant sent word to Thomas to move out of his works to attack Hood. Thomas was not ready, and he went on deliberately with his preparations. Grant telegraphed again. 'The country is excited. Attack.' Thomas was not yet quite ready. Then Grant sent John A. Logan to Louisville to be ready to take command and telegraphed again. 'If you do not attack Hood before [illegible] date, I shall be under the painful necessity of relieving you.' Just at that time Thomas was ready not by recess, but by the completion of his affairs, and the happy collusion of events made the battle of Nashville an honor to both."

A little tumbler will often throw down a big man.

ALABAMA AND MISSISSIPPI.—One of the most remarkable snow storms ever seen in the South fell in Mississippi and Alabama last Sunday night. Cars which arrived here yesterday morning from Huntsville were still covered with snow, although the day seemed quite warm. We have heard of the snow as far east as Tuscumbia, and west of that to a point this side of Grand Junction, and north of Grand Junction to Jackson, Tennessee, and south far below Canton, Mississippi.

In the region of Huntsville the snow fell to the depth of eight or ten inches, and in some places, in the hollows and cuts of the railroad, it had drifted to the depth of three or four feet, and the passage of trains was greatly impeded. We are informed that it was necessary five times within a few miles to unfasten the locomotive from the passenger train and clear away the banks of snow that obstructed the road. One train was delayed several hours. Such an occurrence on that road is very rare indeed.

At Holly Springs, we learn from Col. George Myers, snow fell Monday night three or four inches deep, and Monday following rabbit hunting prevailed throughout the borders of Marshall county. It was rare sport for the country boys, but, before night, the snow declined in favor of General Mud, and then the surving rabbits had the joke in their favor.

At Vicksburg, where magnolias bloom and orange trees smile in mid-winter, the snow was over a foot deep. Only think of snowballing and sleighing in the sunny latitude of Vicksburg.

MONTPENSIER.—Latest dispatches from Spain seem to leave but little room to doubt that the Duc de Montpensier is the preferred aspirant for and will shortly ascend the vacant throne of that country. He was born at the Chateau de Neuilly on the 31st of July, 1824, and is therefore nearly forty-five years of age. He is the third son of Louis Phillippe, "the citizen King," and as he is wedded to Maria de Bourbon, sister of Isabella, the deposed Queen of Spain, the "blue blood" of the oft-time rival houses of Bourbon and Orleans mingle in the veins of his five children. Montpensier won considerable military distinction in Algeria during the latter years of his father's reign, and has generally been regarded as among the most advanced in liberal ideas of the members of the old nobility of France. Since the revolution of 1848, he has spent most of his time in England, but has latterly held high rank in the Spanish army and commanded much respect and influence at the Spanish Court, while he at the same time has become a general favorite with the populace. It is to be hoped that adversity, travel and intelligent observation have educated him to a comprehension of popular rights and necessities, and that his reign will prove a benificence for the Spanish people and do no discredit to his name and lineage.

ENTERPRISE TRIUMPHANT.—The OREGON DISPENSARY is establishing a reputation second to no house on the coast as a first class and Cheap Drug Store.

Our success has been so flattering that we have sent for another Apothecary. We have also secured the valuable services of Dr. J. A. CHAPMAN as Consulting Surgeon and Physician, thus giving evidence of our desire to afford the best of everything to our patrons for their liberal patronage. LORYEA & KALLENBERG,
73 First street.

OPPOSITION LINE OF STEAMERS.—A private letter from San Francisco says that a strong and well regulated Steamship company was formed in that city for the purpose of running a line of steamers regularly between San Francisco and Portland. The steamers are known to be suitable for the Oregon trade, and are noted for good speed and splendid passenger accommodation. The people of Oregon will have an opportunity of showing whether they are willing to patronize good and staunch steamers, at a reasonable price for freight and passage, as it will depend on the patronage these steamers will receive whether they will remain in our waters or not.

While you think of opposition, remember that KOHN & FISHEL, No. 91 Front street, have the finest stock of Clothing and Dry Goods, and sell at very low prices.

WALTHAM WATCHES.

The extensive use of these watches for the last fifteen years by Railway Conductors, Engineers and Expressmen, the most exacting of watch wearers, has thoroughly demonstrated the strength, steadiness, durability and accuracy of the Waltham Watch. To satisfy that class in all these respects, is to decide the question as to the real value of these timekeepers.

The superior organization and great extent of the Company's Works at Waltham, enable them to produce watches, COMBINING THE BEST AND LATEST IMPROVEMENTS, and at a price which renders competition futile, and those who buy any other watch, merely pay from 25 to 50 per cent more for their watches than is necessary.
